

The nineteenth-century title of this part of literature is the , short list . But, I to the turn out better, instead of so, from his point of view determined mind be, that would not to p t afford this in our private lives, that of us r his personal finance. And certainly not afford it in public life, that we lives into the future tomorrow's being a repetition of yesterday. On other pe s of civil tion not's ill its lf out in r urring d i Accord ly, if ve up p , our civili tion ld t ly run on roc So, in tic , to act if li ed, implicitly our ti s belis , in th e l of th t to th fu c th t the ti t obvi t the utili tion of the t k to th future h compli t d ef c. o in our circumstanc t it in ir let ary, th l , to pply piec of t i l c to th obj t of this pr ent set of lectures

I will place you into this Hellenic story by you to help half to be Greek business, living work in the city of Alexandria on-ile in or about the year 225 B C — 18 —

н

н

Greece and permanently breaking-up the Persian Empire. Macedon is now a Roman province; Great Egypt is Roman protectorate; and all but a fragment of that once vast Seleucid Greek Empire in South-West Asia has been partitioned between Rome and Parthia. Rome has annexed eastern Asia Minor; Parthia has annexed Babylonia, which is the equal of Egypt as a granary.

b i

This comin thing have rived by th time e hav turned the next t o p s. This s brou t u to .D. 275. t this d te the three

